

Avnet Abacus to exhibit at SPS Smart Production Solutions 2023

Leading EMEA distributor to present solutions for a spectrum of industrial automation applications from robotics to AGVs at the Nuremberg Messe on Stand 10.0-516

Brussels, Belgium, 25th October, 2023: Avnet Abacus, one of Europe's leading distributors in interconnect, passive, electro-mechanical plus complimentary lead technologies such as power, energy storage, sensors, wireless and a regional business unit of Avnet (NASDAQ: AVT), is to present its solutions at this year's SPS – Smart Production Solutions, which will be held at the Nuremberg Messe from 14-16 November 2023.

The SPS exhibition is designed to highlight the latest innovations in the automation sector and showcase the complete spectrum of smart and digital automation technologies, from simple sensors to intelligent solutions, enabling the vision of a comprehensively digitised industrial world.

Avnet Abacus has extensive experience in myriad industrial sectors and supports emerging start-ups through to major industrial OEMs by offering the optimal mix of products and technologies, delivering precision, security, ruggedness, long-life performance, and connectivity.

With its overarching theme of 'Enabling Today's Industrial Automation', Avnet Abacus will be presenting dedicated workstations across several areas in industrial automation, including robotics, HMIs (Human-Machine Interfaces), factory automation, and AGVs (Automated Guided Vehicles).

Avnet Abacus will be welcoming visitors, together with its partners and suppliers, to stand number 10.0-516 at the Nuremberg Messe.
