Spring Loaded Sealing Cap Provides Fail Safe Protection for Connectors

While Bulgin's Buccaneer range of connectors offers IP68 protection to front of panel plugs when mated or fitted with the the screw-on cap, the problem remained for situations where general protection against ingress of moisture or dirt was required in applications where panel mounted connectors were left open. This issue has now been addressed and solved with an attractive and practical solution. The PX0713 sealing cap offers IP65 protection, is spring loaded to close with clip shut to seal. Any of the wide range of panel mounted standard Buccaneer series connectors can be fitted which means a professional and unified design can be applied to connection panels.
