Incomedia's WebSite X5 Evolution 8 receives a nomination for the Softwareload.de portal's "Software of the Year 2010" award

After an excellent 3rd place in last year's edition, WebSite X5 has once again been nominated as a candidate for the "Web Design" category in the "Software of the Year 2010" awards organized by Softwareload.de

The German website Softwareload.de, the download platform of Deutsche Telekom AG, is now preparing the 2010 edition of the "Software of the Year" awards.
A panel of judges, consisting of twelve experts from the industry and media sectors, has selected the best software products currently available on the market. The products are divided into 18 categories. The public can vote online from 1st to 30th September 2010 for their favourite software product. Go to http://www.softwareload.de/c/19/82/75/40/19827540.html and cast your vote for the winners of each category.

WebSite X5 Evolution 8, the "made in Italy" software proposed by Incomedia, is one of 10 contenders for the "Software of the Year 2010" award in the "Web Design" category . Federico Ranfagni, CEO of Incomedia, commented "The 3rd place we obtained last year confirmed the reputation of WebSite X5 Evolution 8 and was a reason for pride and joy. This year the competition is even tougher as we are competing against many other important international software products. However, we are very confident that we will replicate last year's success because of the increasing popularity of our software worldwide, thanks to our peers who, I know, will continue to support us during this event".

WebSite X5 Evolution 8 is an all-in-one solution packed with all the tools needed to create and publish professional web sites, online shops and blogs in just 5 easy steps. WebSite X5 is designed to work like a wizard, visually guiding users through the steps to create and publish complete, functional and professional web sites, blogs and online shops.
WebSite X5 Evolution 8 is currently available in more than 40 countries and in 18 languages. An international mix of users follows us on our forum (www.websitex5.com/forum) and on Facebook (www.facebook.com/websitex5).

Federico concludes "We invite everyone who appreciates WebSite X5 Evolution 8 to cast their online vote for our software, by linking to Softwareload.de at http://www.softwareload.de/c/19/82/75/40/19827540.html and lighting up all ten of those gold stars!"
