orginio's first single-sign-on integration: Online org charting tool ready-to-use in Okta Application Network orginio, Ingentis' org charting and workforce planning solution for the cloud, has now been added to the Okta Application Network (OAN).

Okta, leading single-sign-on (SSO) provider in North America, is known for being the "foundation for secure connections between people and technology". Its OAN platform offers SSO access to currently more than 5.000 pre-integrated applications, while complying with highest security standards.

Aside from now being part of a network that connects thousands of organizations with essential business applications, the addition to the OAN is also a special first for orginio: "This is the first SSO integration of orginio and therefore definitely marks a highlight in our cloud solution's still very young life!" says Michael Grimm, product manager of orginio. "People have been given ease of mind when working with their cloud apps thanks to Okta, and now, they can also enjoy smart org charting with orginio in the same safe environment."

The integration of orginio is attended by the SAML authentication standard, an open-standard, XML-based data format for verification processes.

orginio offers five different licensing packages featuring various functionalities, including the proceed PERFECT package that comes with single-sign-on.
